

Phillips Company takes responsibility for the following advice: To determine your medical condition, please visit your physician or healthcare provider and be properly diagnosed before starting any new treatment or therapy. Always clear any new treatment or therapy with your physician or healthcare professional first. Use of this website is at your risk! We are not legally or otherwise liable for any information given on this website. By viewing or clicking on the links contained in this website, you are indemnifying Phillips Company from any damage or lawsuits derived from the use of our products or information contained within its content. We are not pharmacists, physicians or healthcare providers. We do not treat, diagnose, or prescribe medications or non-medications. The products and content of this site should not be construed in such a fashion. It is for informational purposes only.